

International Arbitration Funding

Dispute finance from case inception through post-judgment enforcement and recovery

International arbitration is costly and complicated.

Affording to engage in it doesn't have to be.

Financial Solutions Designed for Complex Problems

Our funding is non-recourse, which means that parties using it only repay us from the recoveries from any successful arbitration award or litigation.

Funding for Claimants and Counsel

Omni Bridgeway provides arbitration funding to claimants and counsel. For claimants, we act as vital partners bridging the gap between having a claim that could yield recoveries and having the risk-mitigated means to pursue it.

CLAIMANTS

Affording expensive legal fees

Claimants use our funding to cover legal fees for a single arbitration or portfolios containing multiple arbitration matters or a mix of commercial litigation and arbitration matters. Tapping outside capital from Omni Bridgeway allows our clients to engage in business as usual throughout the lengthy arbitration process without being financially burdened with the expense of pursuing their claims.

Enforcing Awards

Omni Bridgeway also helps claimants collect on hard-won arbitration awards. Our team offers unmatched asset tracing and recovery experience, providing the assistance claimants need to prepare for and overcome the final obstacle in their dispute resolution journeys.

COUNSEL

Sharing Risk with Clients

For counsel representing Omni Bridgeway-funded claimants, we provide a vehicle for sharing risk with clients without assuming debt or compromising the quality of the representation. Our funding allows a firm to be paid a portion of its fees throughout each matter, plus retain the potential of upside when the client prevails in the arbitration.

Monetizing Portfolios of Claims

We also provide non-recourse funding directly to either claimants or law firms seeking to monetize portfolios of three or more arbitration claims, or a combination of affirmative arbitration and commercial litigation claims. Claimants often use our portfolio funding to finance claims across their business units. Law firms use it to offer flexible fee arrangements and to provide competitive prices to clients while mitigating risk.

Our process

Our highly experienced arbitration funding team dives into a matter, assessing its merits, providing strategic guidance where desired, and — most importantly — deploying the capital needed to carry the matter through to its best outcome.

Omni Bridgeway's funding process involves three simple stages:

Typical uses

- 1 Legal fees and costs for expensive arbitration
- 2 Security for costs and adverse cost awards

- 4 Working capital

- 6 Removal of the cost of arbitration from the income statement
- 7 Award enforcement proceedings
- 8 Award execution/monetization

Investment considerations

Omni Bridgeway evaluates several factors when considering whether to invest in a single arbitration matter, or a portfolio containing arbitration matters, including the following:

- Qualifications and arbitration-specific experience of counsel
- Documentary and witness evidence on factual issues
- Experts on liability and damages issues
- Collectability of the award
- Likely time to collection of the award
- Security for costs
- Adverse costs awards
